

ARMY CUP

The Army Cup is a composite trophy. The central portion of the trophy is the sterling silver cup itself. Five-pointed stars form a circle around the cup's rim. The cup is lidded and the lid is surmounted by the figure of an eagle with wings extended. The cup is mounted on a three-tiered square wooden base. At each corner of the base's top tier is the figure of an armed "Minuteman." The trophy was presented to the NRA by the United States Army in 1963 as an annual award for individual excellence in Service Rifle competition.

Match Conditions:

- 1963 Two sighting shots and 20 shots for record, 600 yards, slow fire, prone with either the Service Rifle or the NRA Match Rifle.
- 1976 Two sighting shots and 30 shots for record, 600 yards, slow fire, prone with either the Service Rifle or the NRA Match Rifle.
- 1978 Returned to the conditions established in 1963.
